Rain didn't wash out pot of Black Gold

BELLE GLADE—Thunderheads and lightning that had been menacing for more than an hour before the Black Gold Jubilee Parade got underway Saturday morning fulfilled their threats and released a downpour before the parade was 1 foot over but that didn't slow the parade of stop other events as the second annual festival proved bigger and more successful than the first.

The parade got underway on time at 10:30 a.m. while thunder grumbled to the north and west and the first raindrops spattered on Main Street when about one third of the parade had passed the reviewing stand at Avenue D.

By the time the Amheuser Busch float passed the stand, bringing up the tail of the parade, what started out as a sprinkle had advanced to a drizzle and then a downpour as crowds lining the street scurried for cover but those in the parade were surprised to find heavy crowds still lining Southwest Avenue E all the way to Glades Plaza, where the parade was scheduled to disband.

Although some of the units began dropping out earlier, most of the parade went all the way to the Plaza in the pouring rain. Meanwhile, people in McDonald Park who had been keeping a wary eye on the skies began covering their displays with plastic sheets and others made a run for the fire station, where most of the booths were eventually set up, including tables where clubs and organizations were hawking hot coffee, soft drinks, hot dogs, hamburgers, chili and full meals of fried chicken.

The mood in the fire station was generally cheerful despite the rain and awards were presented to various tournament and event winners there, with the speakers facing into the station rather than out into the park from the flatbed trailer that had been provided.

Once the rain stopped, the vendors began moving their booths and tables back into the park and entertainment was provided in the form of singing, music by the "Jades Central stage band and a dancing act by "The Crosby Sisters".

Winners floats entered in the business division of the parade were Royal's Department Stores in first place, Florida First National Bank at Belle Glade in second, and Cone's Paint Store in third place. Each received a plaque.

Cub Scout Troop 622 won the last competition in the organization division and, since there were only two entries, also was awarded third place. The Black Gold Committee's float won second place.

The first place prize was $150, donated by Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. The second place prize was a check in the amount of $100, donated by Royal's and third place prize was a check for $75, donated by Glades Mercantile. If things were rainy Saturday, an early threat by cloudy skies Sunday morning proved empty and events at the city marinas went off under sunny skies.

A crowd estimated between 3,000 and 4,000 were on hand to munch on barbecued chicken with all the fixings, a meal sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and watch various competitions and shows. The chamber prepared 1,500 half-chickens and estimated some 200 were left over.

The races began at 3 p.m., with more rafts entered than any time in the past. The winners were the USS Coffin, entered by the Kiwanis Club, in the men's division; South Bay's Finest, entered by the City of South Bay, in the women's division and Bonavia Chevrolet in the mixed division.

Dr. Robert Allen claimed two distinctions for his raft in the mixed race, however, noting he was celebrating his 68th birthday and was the oldest participant in the raft races, and his crew member, see Black Gold 10A.

County donates $200,000 PBJC auditorium wins reprieve

By DEAN JONES
Herald-Observer Editor

New life was breathed into the possibility of a Palm Beach Junior College-Glades auditorium Tuesday morning when the Palm Beach County Commission agreed to donate an additional $200,000 to be used for matching funds for the facility's construction.

The commission agreed, when District Five Commissioner Bill Bailey showed where the money could come from, to donate the $200,000, although Commissioner Dennis Koehler stipulated he would like to see a "good faith" donation by the City of Belle Glade.

PBJC President Ed Eissey told the commissioners he was going to give them an opportunity they couldn't refuse, telling them the facility had been planned under a two-to-one matching funds basis but the low bid came in half again as high as had been anticipated.

Dr. Eissey explained the architect has anticipated a cost of $900,000 and $1 million had been budgeted but the low bid, by Wallace Lutz of Pahokee, had come in at $1,595,995.

Dr. Eissey said he had come up with several possible alternative ways of finding the additional funds but the final alternative, using college money already budgeted for other items, had been quashed by the state because, under the program, one third of the total funds would have to be donated locally and two thirds would be supplied by the state.

The problem was that the money he was considering transferring came from the state. One third of the total construction cost amounts to $532,000.

The college had already raised $300,000; $200,000 from the county commission and another $100,000 that came in the form of a donation of $78,000 from the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida when the Glades campus was procured with the help of George Wedgworth. The $78,000 had grown to $90,000 through the addition of interest.

To complicate matters, Dr. Eissey told the county commission, the $232,000 had to be raised by May 1 to meet an extended deadline set by Lutz. He said he had to have some kind of commitment from the commissioners Tuesday because he intended to fly to Tallahassee today to get a commitment from the state.

Commissioner Bailey told the other commissioners he didn't believe they would be willing to take the full $232,000 from their contingency fund but said $100,000 could be transferred from funds earmarked for an extension of Southwest Avenue E.

"If we can transfer $100,000 from that project," he said, "would you be willing to match it with another $100,000 from the contingency funds?" He explained that was the only project in the Glades area which could be tapped and said he realized the other commissioners would have long memories when it came time for budget sessions.

Commissioners Frank Foster and Norman Gregory said they didn't intend to wait that long. Foster quipped he intended to cash in Tuesday afternoon. Commissioner Koehler noted to the audience this was what was known as horse trading.

Koehler said he believed the entire commission supported the concept of the auditorium and would like to support it monetarily.

He went on to say, however, that he believed the college should also approach the Belle Glade City Commission and ask for a donation of $20,000 to $25,000, "or even a token donation of $5,000."

Dr. Eissey said he would ask the city for the donation but added there was a possibility the only way the city could come up with the donation would be if it were donated to them so they could, in turn, donate it to the college.

Bailey also added there was a move afoot to solicit donations for the $32,000 still needed.

Koehler said, after the commission voted to make the donation, that it was an approval in concept and the transfer of funds wouldn't take place until the commission's meeting next Tuesday.

South Bay city manager controversy cools off

SOUTH BAY—What had taken on the possibility of becoming a heated controversy surrounding the use of city gasoline and garage services by the city manager for his personal car apparently came to a quiet end Monday with a memo from Mayor Don Tanner.

Tanner instructed City Manager Charles Merz in his memo to stop the practice of having his car gassed up at the city garage and to stop using city mechanics for servicing the vehicle.

But the mayor made it plain during the Monday workshop that he didn't think the city manager had done anything legally or morally wrong, saying Merz supplied purchase orders and invoices for all the gasoline he and services he was supplied.

"I hope that will alleviate the problem," Tanner said. He said he had spoken with former Mayor Billy Wells, who told him he could remember discussing the issue with Merz but couldn't remember authorizing the city manager to receive the goods and services.

The commissioners had discussed the problem in a workshop last week and it was brought up in a regular meeting by O'Neal and Byron Walker last Tuesday. The two Walkers complained about the city manager's use of city funds and the transfer of funds wouldn't take place until the commission's meeting next Tuesday.

After Tanner read the memo he had written to Merz, City Attorney James Gann suggested, and the commission agreed, that he should research a stated law dealing with the city paying travel and per diem expenses for city employees and elected officials.

Gann said he would read the law with an eye toward incorporating the state law into a city ordinance.

Commissioner Bay Sullivan asked Tanner what he had decided about Merz living in Wellington, another complaint of the Walkers last week, and Tanner said it would be up to the commission.

Sullivan said he didn't mind himself but pressure was being applied by city residents.

Commissioner Vernita Cox suggested the problem might be solved if Merz would spend a couple of nights a week in the city. No response was made to that suggestion.

Sullivan also suggested that Merz be required to return a credit card to the city, since it would only be used on city business and an ordinance would be drawn up to have the city reimburse him for travel expenses.

Gann suggested that Sullivan might reconsider that move, saying it could get expensive for a city employee if he had to make a long trip and pay his expenses out of his own pocket to be reimbursed later.

Commissioners Sammy Rogers and Refugio "Pasecho" Garcia said they were satisfied with the way Tanner had handled the issue.

It would seem as though everybody is having to cope in some way with higher prices these days so Backtalk's question this week was, "How is inflation affecting what you buy?"

A first rate festival

There were no rainbows after the first deluge came Saturday but there was still a pot of pure gold, Black Gold; waiting for those who stuck around then and for those who said the heck with the rain and came out after the final flood.

This was the year, according to more than one prognosicator, that the Black Gold Jubilee was going to make or break, do or die and by the time it was winding down Sunday afternoon, after beautiful weather for the activities at the marina, the consensus seemed to be that it was make and do.

The general feeling among those who had worked long hours to make the Second Annual Black Gold Jubilee a reality seemed to be one of satisfaction, not that they'd come up with the ultimate but we have a viable harvest celebration; something good for the community.

As in the cases of the first Jubilee last year and the city's 50th Anniversary celebration two years ago, there was a tremendous question lasting until just before the celebration was due to begin.

Are people interested?

Auditorium is needed

Much of the groundwork had obviously been already laid but it was a pleasure Tuesday to watch two super salesmen like Ed Eissey and Bill Bailey at work on behalf of the Glades.

Between Dr. Eissey, president of Palm Beach Junior College, and County Commissioner Bailey, the county commission scraped up $200,000 to be used at matching funds to ensure the reality of a Palm Beach Junior College-Glades auditorium.

That 500 seat auditorium is one of the most needed things in the Glades, offering as it will a place to hold any number of functions, but it's been hanging fire for months now, the victim of delays and inflation.

Nobody realized just how much inflation was affecting the auditorium until the bids were opened in March and the lowest bid came in at $1.6 million when the anticipated cost was $900,000.

Less optimistic people than Dr. Eissey and PBJC Trustee Dolly Hand would have given up but the bid opening simply set up a madhouse scramble by the college president and Mrs. Hand to find the $600,000 needed to make up the difference, $232,000 of which had to come from local funds.

After coming up with several alternatives, none of which panned out, Dr. Eissey put it to the county

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

I remember when the goal was to plant those palms from the Pahokee city limits to city limits of Canal Point. Mr. Rideout worked very hard as has the Garden Club and Racoon Point Road residents to keep those trees.

Those post cards showing the majestic beauty of those trees are known country wide.

Bacon Point Road use to end at the airport and the trees were planted even before the road was opened into Chosen and Belle Glade. Then Dead Man's Curve, Australian pines, cinals, etc. claimed the lives of those who did not keep their mind on their driving.

Accidents don't just happen, people cause them. Road conditions, weather, any excuse you want to make. A person is suppose to drive according to conditions at all times.

Sometimes a person is the result of another's mistake and not at fault when the accident occurs, but in no way can I believe this is true of the trees. What about the power and telephone poles?

This letter has been going through my head for more than a week now and to tell you the truth I could easily write 10 pages of why the trees should stay.

We should think carefully about all this, since all of us should use a little wisdom in tearing down what another has built.

one-half marathon had only one entry and there was talk it would have to be scratched.

Granted, it wasn't the Boston Marathon but then we haven't been at it for 84 years either and this is Belle Glade, not Boston. The winner of the Black Gold half marathon, Ted Harris, ran the Boston Marathon in two hours and 40 minutes, by the way. He was joined by 15 other runners Saturday morning and several said they would be returning, that they had enjoyed the run and the way it was operated. Kudos to Johnny Rutledge and Jane Williams.

The parade, despite early fears there were only going to be three floats and despite a real palmetto flattener of a rainstorm that broke midway through, was the best ever. Besides standby Glades Central, there were three other bands providing music throughout the line of march; all welcome. Besides a last-minute influx of floats from local merchants and organizations, the Speckled Perch float from Okeechobee was a welcome addition. Lynette Thompson outdid herself.

Becky Wedgworth and the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club put together a bigger and better arts and crafts show and if the downpour chased away a number of people who would otherwise have lingered for the afternoon, there was a very real feeling of togetherness when many more crowded into the firstrestation to make the best of a damp situation.

The people who really missed out, though, were the ones who obviously thought the Almost Anything Goes competition at Glades Central football stadium had been rained out.

A gulleywasher had apparently done just that but as the time for the competition came up, the weather cooperated, finally, and by the time the games began, the only thing still wet was the field and that didn't stop eight teams of players from having a ball, even if it was before a small crowd.

This is going to be one of the highlights of future Jubilees and, again, Jane Williams and a corps of volunteers, largely from the city Recreation Department, were responsible.

And what can we say about Sunday? The weather was great. The Chamber put on a first class barbecue. The raft races were bigger and better than ever, with some ingenious designs making their appearances. Sunshine Water Sports, Limited put on a fine water ski show. A lot of kids were obviously enjoying themselves with games of pitch-penny, softball throwing and other games. Older kids were pitching horseshoes. Jazz lovers heard some great music from the Glades Central Jazz Ensemble and Johnny Rutledge and his crew closed the day with an unexpectedly fantastic fireworks display.

As a number of people, many visiting from neighboring towns, said, it was a good way to spend a Sunday afternoon but it didn't come easily. The Black Gold Jubilee was the result of a lot of hard work and no one put in more time and effort Dolly Hand, who has chaired the last three festivals. Thanks, Dolly, and thanks to everyone who worked, directly or indirectly, to put this thing together.

Belle Glade is well on its way towards a first rate annual celebration.

Now for the Third Annual...

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Wotta weekend! I think we got ourselves something going here in this Black Gold Jubilee...something worthwhile.

Actually, the whole thing got off to a start Friday night with the conference table meet over at Glades Central when the guys and gals mopped up their new track with the competition.

One of the strangest things of the day happened after I sat down at one end of the field to watch a real dual between Wilford Morgan, the standout from Glades Central who placed in all four field events, and Vince Hunter of Jupiter at the high jump.

I guess I picked up on the competition between the two at the 6'2" mark, after they'd already eliminated everybody else. Hunter said 6'2" was the best mark he'd ever jumped before Friday night but he was pushing Morgan before it was over.

First they went to 6'4" and both of 'em cleared the bar at the first try. Then they went to 6'6" and that's where things started getting hairy.

Hunter would jump and the Morgan would jump. Hunter brought the bar down with him and Morgan did the same, then they repeated the whole thing until the third try, when both of 'em cleared the bar.

By that time, things were getting tense and both competitors were really concentrating. Considering the number of kids, racing and wrestling around that end of the field, I don't have the foggiest how they did it.

To make a long story not quite so long, both Hunter and Morgan missed the first two jumps at 6'7" and it wasn't until Hunter missed on his third try and Morgan cleared the bar that anyone had a clear edge.

I sat there, clicking away at every attempt, wrapped up almost as much as the two jumpers and it wasn't until Morgan failed to make his third attempt at 6'8" that I looked around.

When I sat down, there had been maybe three of four others watching but when I got up, there was a gallery of maybe 300 gathered behind me. Nothing else was going on...just that high jump.

In the meantime, Hunter went on to win first place in the long jump with an incredible leap of 23'6". Morgan still had his three tries at the long jump but I don't know how he did it. People were lined up on both sides of the approach track, cheering, laughing and waving good old time and Morgan was supposed to run that gauntlet with maybe three feet in between, and try to win the long jump.

He didn't manage but then, like I said, I don't know how he managed to even make the three jumps. Don't write him off though because he did take second place in the long jump (22'2") and placed in every field event.

Then there was Saturday and anybody who tells me about April showers anytime in the next week or so is risking bodily injury. May be even mayhem. Matter of fact, I may have helped because I was able to get back under shelter pretty fast but the last time I saw Brenda, she was waving merrily to people along the sidewalk from her perch on the Cub Scout float as it rolled around the corner of Main Street, with about half a mile further to go along Avenue E before the breakup at Glades Plaza.

I think the next float in line was a put on though. I don't remember seeing anything in the program about a double-ended houseboat loaded down with animals and white-bearded men letting go a raven.

Actually, things went along pretty well for the rest of the day, including a little togetherness in the Fire Station, until it was about time for the Almost Anything Goes and the skies clattered up and let loose another bucketful of rain, wind and what-have-you.

I'll give the Police Department team credit for coming onto the field with the most style. Everybody else, me included, sorta swam out while it was still raining.

Not the fuzz. Here they came with sirens wailing and lights flashing...but the team wasn't in the cruiser, it was the limousine the cruiser was

The Black Gold Jubilee was the result of a lot of hard work and no one put in more time and effort Dolly Hand, who has chaired the last three festivals. Thanks, Dolly, and thanks to everyone who worked, directly or indirectly, to put this thing together.

Belle Glade is well on its way towards a first rate annual celebration.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Wotta weekend! I think we got ourselves something going here in this Black Gold Jubilee...something worthwhile.

Actually, the whole thing got off to a start Friday night with the conference track meet over at Glades Central when the guys and gals mopped up their new track with the competition.

One of the strangest things of the day happened after I sat down at one end of the field to watch a real duel between Wilford Morgan, the standout from Glades Central who placed in all four field events, and Vince Hunter of Jupiter at the high jump.

I guess I picked up on the competition between the two at the 6'2" mark, after they'd already eliminated everybody else. Hunter said 6'2" was the best mark he'd ever jumped before Friday night but he was pushing Morgan before it was over.

First they went to 6'4" and both of 'em cleared the bar at the first try. Then they went to 6'6" and that's where things started getting hairy.

Hunter would jump and the Morgan would jump. Hunter brought the bar down with him and Morgan did the same, then they repeated the whole thing until the third try, when both of 'em cleared the bar.

By that time, things were getting tense and both jumpers were really concentrating. Considered the number of kids racing and wrestling around that end of the field, I don't have the foggiest how they did it.

To make a long story not quite so long, both Hunter and Morgan missed the first two jumps at 6'7" and it wasn't until Hunter missed on his third try and Morgan cleared the bar that anyone had a clear edge.

I sat there, clicking away at every attempt, trapped almost as much as the two jumpers and it wasn't until Morgan failed to make his third attempt at 6'8" that I looked around.

When I sat down, there had been maybe three of four others watching but when I got up, there was a gallery of maybe 300, gathered behind me. Nothing else was going on...just that high jump.

In the meantime, Hunter went on to win first place in the long jump with an incredible leap of 23'6". Morgan still had his three tries for the long jump but I don't know how he did it. People were lined up on both sides of the approach track, chattering, laughing and having a good old time and Morgan was supposed to run that gauntlet with maybe three feet in between, and try to win the long jump.

He didn't manage but then, like I said, I don't know how he managed to even make the three jumps. Don't write him off though because he did take second place in the long jump (22'2") and placed in every field event.

That was Saturday and anybody who tells me about April showers anytime in the next week or so is risking bodily injury...maybe even mayhem. Matter of fact, I may have helped because I was able to get back under shelter pretty fast but the last time I saw Brenda, she was waving merrily to people along the sidewalk from her perch on the Cub Scout float as it sloshed around the corner of Main Street, with about half a mile further to go along Avenue E before the breakup at Glades Plaza.

I think the next float in line was a put on though. I don't remember seeing anything in the program about a double-ended houseboat loaded down with animals and white-bearded men letting go a raven.

Actually, things went along pretty well for the rest of the day, including a little togetherness in the Fire Station, until it was about time for the Almost Anything Goes and the sides clattered up and let loose another bucketful of rain wind and what-have-you.

I'll give the Police Department team credit for coming onto the field with the most style. Everybody else, me included, sorta swam out while it was still raining.

Not the fuzz. Here they came with sirens wailing and lights flashing...but the team wasn't in the cruiser, it was the limousine the cruiser was

Hos tages are sacrificial lambs

By H.G. DUNCAN

At this writing the bearded one has held our Americans hostage in Tehran for better than 150 days. There seems to be no light at the end of this tunnel; merely disappointment.

Carter, in an uncharacteristic show of moral courage and a little gumption, ordered the Iranian Embassy closed, the foreign service personnel out of this country, and diplomatic ties severed.

Immediately after the rare display of positive leadership, Carter swung back to the left. He ordered an embargo, except for food and drugs. He ordered visas cancelled, except for students (all $0,000+ of them) already in this country. He threatened a naval blockade rather than implement one. He hinted at use of military force if the hostages are not released.

Why should we exempt food and drugs from the embargo? Let them do without any aid from this country. Why did he not expel the "students" whose contemporaries are holding our people hostage? Why threaten a blockade; do it!

I couldn't help thinking of the old, trite saying: "A day late and a dollar short."

We have been patient for better than five months. We have achieved nothing during that time except for what the lip-tremblers would call the continued life of our hostages.

Those hostages have been placed in a position which makes them soldiers of their country just as surely as any man in uniform. My heart goes out to them in their misery and for the uncertainty of their future. But they are soldiers, and as such, they must be prepared to sacrifice even more.

The threat has been made by the followers of that fur-bearing, psychotic creep that should this country attempt a military move, the hostages will be put to death. I think the gauntlet is down.

I am unconvinced that this country does not have the expertise and means to seize those hostages. The military resources and resourcefulness to prevail in our defense establishment dictates that several plans must now be in existence which would gain their release at a minimum risk to the lives of those poor devils.

May I put forth my suggestion? This nation should put Iran on notice that within two hours a demonstration will be made to show our determination to win the freedom of the hostages. Then a squadron of F-4s should take out one of Iran's oil refineries.

Immediately following that move, Iran should be handed an ultimatum: Release the hostages within 24 hours or suffer national devastation. It would be a gamble; a gamble which that imperceptive abomination in the White House would lack the courage to take. We could well win or lose the hostages. But one thing we would win either way is the regaining of our lost self-respect, the respect of the rest of the world, and our prestige.

Under the questionable leadership of Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon we lost our prestige and respect at the cost of $5,000 dead young Americans and billions of dollars spent in our futile efforts to bolster the chronic corruption of an incorrectly primitive country.

I think the gamble of the lives of 50 more of our patriots in the assured regaining of those qualities is well worth the risk.

That sounds like a cold, hard statement. In any combat, lives are gambled. This is a situation of combat.

Carter, along with millions of well-meaning Americans, would not agree with that. We have been conditioned to not seeing the forest for the trees.

commission bluntly Tuesday morning. "If you don't come up with another $200,000 (they had already donated $200,000 earlier) we lose our opportunity to build this Educational and Instructional Center."

After Bailey told the other commissioners present where they could find $100,000 and making the request to match that $100,000 from the commission contingency fund, he received the support of the commission, although Commissioner Dennis Koehler said he would like to see the City of Belle Glade make its own donation.

Koehler said he believed the entire county commission supported the concept of the auditorium but a donation of $20,000-$25,000, or even a token donation of $5,000 from Belle Glade would show its good faith.

The county commission should be commended for its generous donation and the city commission should give every possible consideration to donating as much as possible; not only the minimum $5,000 Koehler mentioned but more if possible.

The auditorium will enhance the entire area, including the cities of Belle Glade, Pahokee and South Bay and one thing should be pointed out. Even after the $232,000 is raised, that doesn't include a parking lot and lighting needed to make the auditorium a truly viable asset to the community.

For those who don't visit the college campus at night, it can be awfully difficult to find a parking place in the existing parking lot and when the auditorium is built, this is going to be a prime consideration.

Veteran runner wins marathon

BELLE GLADE—He didn't say it, but the winner of the Black Gold Jubilee One Half Marathon may have been using the 13-mile run as a warmup because after finishing his little outing in 1:27 early Saturday morning, he left later that day to join almost 6,000 others in the Boston Marathon.

Monday's version was the third time Ted Farris has entered the Boston competition during the almost-three years he's been running. He said he is seriously considering returning to the Glades because the running is so enjoyable here.

Farris was one of 16 men and women who turned out for the second annual Black Gold half-marathon, ten more than the six who turned out last year.

The other winners in the men's division, lining in behind Farris, were Harris McBride of Clewiston in second place with a time of 1:32, and Mike Werner of Clewiston with a time of 1:33.

The only woman who ran was Mary Lynn Meyer, a seventh grade school teacher from Moore Haven High School. She finished well within the pack with a time of 1:49.

Two other women who entered the marathon chose to run a six mile course and ran it together rather than compete with each other. Finishing in an hour and eight minutes were Carol Priest and Cindy McKee. They sprinted into both the three-mile turnaround point and the six-mile finish line. Farris, now a 35-year old West Palm Beach resident, moved to the Glades area in 1976 and he said he was encouraged to begin running by Pahokee High School track coach Antoine Russell and his adopted grandfather, James Clevan of Pahokee.

"I'm running about 120 miles a week now," he said, "because I'm in training for the Boston Marathon." He said it will be the 22nd marathon he's run and some of his more recent accomplishments include placing 11th in the Naval Marathon in Jacksonville in October, 49th in the Orange Bowl Marathon, fourth in the Greater Miami Run and 16th at the Florida Relays in March. He said he was also a member of the Palm Beach County team in the Marine Marathon in Washington D.C.

One could easily see how Farris' hobby fits in with his job. He's a letter carrier in Boca Raton, where he's a member of the Boca Raton Road Runners. He's also a member of the Palm Beach Runners, a long-distance running club that signed up its 1,000th member last week.

A member of the Army Reserve, Farris said he does much of his running on Reserve time.

Several of the runners, including Farris, commented favorably on the Black Gold run and said they would be returning next year.

Glades area Scout-o-rama May 3 at PBJC-G

Glades area scouts are now selling tickets to the 1980 Glades District Scout-O-Rama, scheduled to be held from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, May 3 at the Palm Beach Junior College Glades campus.

"The Scout-O-Rama is one of the biggest events of the year for all levels of Scouts," explained Dr.

M.J. Luce, the activities 1980 general chairman. An estimated 300 youngsters representing nearly all the Boy Scout troops in the Glades area will participate in this year's event.

"It's an opportunity to share scouting accomplishments with the community and to tell the scouting story," Dr. Luce said. "In the past, one large Scout-O-Rama was held in the West Palm Beach area for all six of the South Florida districts. Now, by localizing the event, it makes it much easier for the young men in scouting to show their family and friends the benefits of the scouting program."

This year's theme for the 1980 Scout-O-Rama will be "Scouting... the Better Life." This year's event will also be celebrating the 70th anniversary of Boy Scouting and the 50th anniversary of Cub Scouting.

Tickets, priced at $1 each, may be purchased from local scouts in advance or at the event. Additional information can be obtained by calling Bob Carver at (813) 983-5738.

Patricia Nie was visiting from Taiwan, which made her the participant to come the longest distance to enter.

The horseshoe throwing contest was won by Craig Rawls and Wayne Carter in the men's division and Betty Tyler and Pat Franko in the women's division.

The hula hoop contest was won by Josette Bell, age 8.

The pie eating contest was won by Ruben Johnson in the 5-8 years category and Peter Rawls in the 9-12 category.

While the latter events were going on, members of Sunshine Water Sports, Limited put on a water ski show which included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mills teaming up as she rode on her husband's shoulders and performed acrobatics, multiple ski pulls and clowns.

Later in the day, the younger set had their chance as they threw tennis balls through a small tire, pitched pennies and threw softballs, all for prizes.

The day ended with a fireworks display put on by the City Recreation Department.

STEPPING OFF to lead the Second Annual Black Gold Jubilee parade Saturday morning was the Belle Glade Police Department's honor guard. The streets were still dry when they passed the reviewing stand but it wasn't long before the rain was pouring down.

HOOFIN' IT for Black Gold, the Crosby Sisters had put their act together for the Spring Fever Review at the Prince Theater in Pahokee the weekend before and agreed to do an encore at McDonald Park Saturday. The "sisters" brought down the firehouse.

BLACK GOLD was the name and Jubilee was the game and the whole was made plain by a float entered by the Black Gold Committee which depicted the muck that makes up the area's black gold and sugar, one of the many crops the gold yields.

A WAGON AND A BARN were joined by umbrellas by prudent riders on the Royal's Department Store float in Saturday's Black Gold parade. The wagon and the barn were props but the umbrellas were for real when a downpour caught the parade halfway along its route.

Still to be demonstrated

Bernard Harris is trying to get Glades farmers interested in setting up their own stills and said he will soon be demonstrating how local growers can produce their own alcohol to stretch fuel dollars.

Harris, president of Ethagas Development, Inc., said he will be demonstrating a mobile still, dubbed the OPEC killer, which is designed to brew alcohol from stuff such as vegetable matter left over after crops have been harvested and packed.

He said he is also in the position to sell home units which will produce alcohol from vegetable peels, potato water and other garbage and larger stills costing up to $160,000. The home units are priced at $200 and the OPEC killer is priced at $9,000. They produce anywhere from a gallon and a half per hour and up. The OPEC killer produces 10 to 20 gallons of ethyl alcohol per hour.

Harris said standard car engines could operate on 90 per cent gasoline and 10 per cent alcohol with no conversion necessary and, with conversion, could operate on up to 100 per cent alcohol.

He said smaller engines such as those which power pumps, lawn mowers and the like could be fueled by 100 per cent alcohol with no conversion and larger diesel engines could be converted to operate on a 50:50 mix.

He said the raw material is readily available to make the alcohol and when it's been cooked, it could be spread in pasture land as a high protein animal fodder.

Harris also said there is federal money available to help pay for the cost of the units.

TOO MUCH! was the statement written all over at least one girl's face at the end of the raft race Sunday at the city marina. While her crewmate cools off by dousing his face with water, she simply collapsed momentarily after paddling the course.

Pahokee proposes leash law

PAHOKEE-A city leash law designed to cut down on the number of free-running stray dogs has been called for by city commissioners.

On a motion by Commissioner George Rashley, the council last night authorized City Attorney Michael Stauder to draw up a leash law, patterned after the county ordinance, to be presented for a first reading at the May 13 meeting.

Council's action was prompted by the appearance of "Monk" Johnson, one arm bandaged from wrist to elbow and the other in a sling, the result of injuries sustained in an attempt to break up a dog fight after an unlicensed stray dog attacked the family pet.

Police Chief Carmen (Skeets) Salvatore reported that his department receives "hundreds of calls" concerning stray dogs which are turned over to the county animal control.

"They seem to enforce it (the county ordinance) at their convenience," commented Commission Chairman Robert Wely.

Reluctance to institute a local leash law was voiced by Rashley and Commissioner W.E. (Bill) McKinstry, with Mayor Dean Padgett the only official stating, "I'm for a leash law."

"I'm still against a leash law," said McKinstry, "but there was so much flack the last time it was brought up I'm going to change my mind."

"I hate to see a dog tied up," Rashley said, "but I hate to see strays around town."

The public hearing should decide what the people want," Wely pointed out.

Action on the leash law will be among the last official acts to be taken by the board which will be dissolved following the May 6 city election.

Commissioners voted to convene again last night to consider a petition signed by a group of city residents asking that the number of taxi permits be temporarily increased from 18 to 17 to enable Ella Dean to stay in business.

Mrs. Dean appeared at the April 8 meeting after learning that the permit held by her late husband, Lonnie Dean, had been transferred. Mrs. Dean said she was not aware that the license could be transferred before its expiration date and so had not applied for it.

although she continues to operate the taxi service.

Also appearing before commissioners Tuesday night was a West Palm Beach resident, D.J. Pope, who said he was interested in leasing the city marina.

Pope said he has been coming to Pahokee for years. "You've got a good marina but it needs someone to take care of it so you can make money and so can be (the operator).

Pope was told that the city is presently extending the electrical and sewer hook-ups to accommodate more camping and is repairing the catwalk while awaiting word from the state on whether any concessions can be leased without endangering the city's eligibility for state funding for needed improvements.

David Jones are making good

DATTONA-David Jones are making good in Bethune Cookman football wouldn't be bad grammar around here, it would simply be a statement concerning a couple of former Glades Central High School standouts.

David Jones was a standout defensive lineman for the Raiders for three years, when he wasn't participating in basketball and setting new marks in track, and was graduated from high school in 1975.

He was a football star at Bethune Cookman College in 1976 and was graduated from Glades Central on a football scholarship.

David Jones was an outstanding quarterback for the Raiders, when he wasn't playing basketball, and was graduated from Glades Central in 1978, going to Arizona Western College on a football scholarship.

David Jones transferred to Bethune Cookman College in 1976 and played defensive end and linebacker for three years. He is now being offered, according to Coach Bobby Frazier, by three professional teams and will almost definitely be drafted later this month.

David Jones transferred to Bethune Cookman College this spring and will definitely be playing ball for Coach Frazier this fall, although Frazier said he isn't positive Jones will be at quarterback.

It could all get confusing for the poor sportswriters in the area but anyone familiar with Raider football for the past several years would know both of them.

There are two David Joneses from Belle Glade who have or will be playing football at Bethune Cookman; one just leaving and the other just entering.

And Frazier said he was glad to see both of them.

Frazier and former Glades Central football coach Willie McDonald were roommates in college and McDonald is the reason the younger Jones is now in Daytona, competing with six other hopefuls.

"We didn't know much about him when he got here," Frazier said of Jones, "but we've been overwhelmed. We like his size (6'3") and he can throw that ball.

Frazier said Jones moved the ball club well during a recent scrimmage and he is bunched up with two other quarterbacks who are all vying for the number one job.

ANN TYLER shows off the clown painting she did for the benefit of the Glades Area Community Mental Health Center. The painting and the afghan on the chair beside her were only two of the items on display at the Arts and Crafts Show in McDonald Park.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES were plentiful during Saturday's Black Gold Jubilee parade but one of the first caught the day better than most. ## Almost anything went BELLE GLADE—Almost Anything went with the downpour Saturday night, including the crowd and one of the teams but the people who braved the downpour saw what may become the highlight of the Black Gold Jubilee in future years in the form of Almost Anything Goes.

It was an evening of fun and games for five adult and three high school teams, even if a downpour apparently drowned the hopes of many people that the event would even be held.

The tone was set early on when Police Department's team made a grand entrance while the small crowd was waiting for power to be restored to light the field and allow a public address system to be used.

With the other teams grouped around each other on the Glades Central High School football stadium's new track, the Police entry came screaming onto the field with a cruiser escort leading a grey limousine but the sirens were almost drowned out by the hoots and jeers of the other teams.

Once the limousine came to a dignified halt, the uniformed chauffeur got out and opened the doors to permit the exit of the team, all dressed in jeans and black T-shirts bearing the name "The Enforcers" in grey lettering.

You've gotta give us points for style," team member Jack Fuhlenwider said and one of the team members said they didn't care if they won; they just wanted to beat the City Haulers, the team representing city hall employees.

The comments punctuated the rivalry that had been growing between the two teams in the weeks preceding the Jubilee but when the evening was over, neither team was in the winner's circle. That honor went to the Belle Glade Lions Club in the adult division.

There was a tie for second place between the City Haulers and the All Pro Sporting Goods teams, followed in fourth place by the Kiwanis Club entry and the Enforcers in fifth.

In the high school competition,

Glades Day won and Christian Day School came in second as the Glades Central team was forced to sit on the sidelines through the first two events while they waited for teammates who hadn't shown up.

Hilarity was the object and the order of the day, or evening, as the eight teams wound their way through six events that started with a nine-legged race and degenerated through a caterpillar crawl, with all eight members of each team on their hands and knees, holding onto the ankles of the person in front of them, racing against the others over 30 yards of wet turf.

In other events, the teams competed to see which could throw the most tennis balls into the basket of a tricycle being ridden by one member of the team; tossed volleyballs over a rope from a bedsheet; inflated and stuffed balloons into trash bags and tossed uncooked eggs, coated with cooking oil, down a line of team members.

YEE-E-ECH! This egg catcher did only too good a job.

Clayton, before learning how to order new books, the area of library operation Adalys said appealed to her.

Top men on campus for the day included Edwin Dennard as dean, Stanley Highsmith as assistant principal and Winston Henry as principal. They decided that most of their day's activities included checking up on things generally.

They ran GCHS for a day

Student take-over

By AILSA DEWING

It was a student take-over Tuesday at Glades Central High School when seniors taught the classes, manned the administrative posts and assumed the clerical duties in observance of National Student Leadership Day.

And it was not mere tokenism. Students had to apply for the positions they wanted, submit recommendations, and prepare lesson plans beforehand in order to qualify for the jobs they sought.

As a result, some 46 senior students — about 25 percent of the class — qualified as temporary replacements for administrators, guidance counselors, teachers and secretaries. And for one day they "ran the school."

Preparations began weeks ago under the direction of Sonja Lutz, senior coordinator and French and drama teacher, with the assistance of Lisa Walker, occupation specialist.

First, students had to apply for the jobs they wanted and give their reasons.

Wrote Winston Henry, who wanted to replace Dr. Effie Grear as principal: "I think your job is the most important job in the school and just to have such a position is a great honor."

Another student, hoping to stand-in as a teacher, wrote: "I want to see what it's like to teach high school."

Student applicants were then interviewed and had to submit recommendations from faculty members. The final test came when candidates prepared lesson plans for the day.

Commented one teacher, "I think it's the first time some of them knew we really followed a plan."

GCHS faculty members were also surprised to find that not all applicants were the usual "leaders" of the student body and that some of their less-participating students wanted to "experience the job of teaching," as one candidate explained. Almost none of the students taking part, however, expressed their intention of going into teaching in the future.

Maybe one day of it was enough.

It was no easy day for GCHS student Keith Reece who taught five separate classes in the physical sciences: one class in physics, one in general biology, two in advanced biology and one in introduction to physical science. Preplanning included making a test, setting up an experiment on the synthesis of zinc chloride, and lecturing from prepared notes. None of it was new to Reece who has taken all the courses himself.

Five-week tropical gardening course starts April 29

BELLE GLADE—A five-week gardening course, on selecting and growing tropical and subtropical plants will begin April 29 at the Glades Office Building auditorium. Co-sponsoring by the Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service and the Palm Beach County Garden Supply Dealers Association, the sessions will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on five successive Tuesdays ending May 27.

Gene Joyner, county urban horticulturist, will instruct the course. Topics to be covered include insects and diseases of ornamental plants, selection and maintenance of dooryard citrus and lawn grasses, selecting house plants, and maintenance of ornamental plants.

In addition to the lecture material, there will be a panel discussion by horticultural experts and slides illustrating the lectures.

Door prizes will be awarded and graduation certificate will be given to those completing the course.

According to Joyner, "South Florida provides an ideal setting for growing many tropical and subtropical plants and tropical gardening is as difficult as it might appear. It does, however, take basic knowledge of the requirements and growth habits of the plants to be grown."

Registration forms may be obtained from the Glades Agricultural Office, 2979 North 441 (Glades Courthouse Complex), area nurseries and garden stores or at the door the first night of class.

Open workshop on family violence

BELLE GLADE—A task force meeting for the development of a "Family Violence" Program will be held on Thursday, April 24 at 7:30 p.m., at Palm Beach Junior College Glades Campus.

The speaker will be Mrs. Mary Murray, director of the "Secret Shelter" in West Palm Beach.

The public is invited to attend this task force meeting.

FROM THE GRAPEVINE

By BRENDA BUNTING

the judges' stand before large drops of liquid sunshine started filtering down.

By the time we were halfway down Avenue E I was wishing I had an umbrella. That was a cold rain.

I thought fleetingly of climbing in the tepee for the rest of the trip, but our "be prepared" Cub Scouts had already beat me to it. I would have had to wrestle with about four of them to get that coveted space, and I would've probably lost the battle.

, it rained on my parade. Or to be more specific, it rained on our Black Gold Jubilee parade.

The weekend started out looking ominous when Dean Jones came in off the street Friday with thunderclouds on his face. I asked him why so gloom. He asked if I had heard the weather forecast for the weekend.

Well, I had caught the morning predictions but not the noon update. Besides who believes those turkeys who forecast weather? They're wrong more than they're right. "Be optimistic! It wouldn't dare rain on Black Gold Jubilee weekend!"

I had been asked to ride on the Cub Scouts of America float. We are celebrating our 50th anniversary of Cub Scouts and the float was decorated accordingly.

Saturday morning I awoke to cloudy skies. By the time I got to Glades Central High School to get on the float the wind had picked up considerably and the clouds looked like waterfilled sponges.

But not to worry, Jane Schoenfeld assured me she was leading the rain to Pahokee. Just in case though, she put some raincoats in the Cub Scouts tepee.

We got rolling on schedule and managed to make it past

Doyce Wilson, Nellie Sprose and myself merrily waved our way down Avenue E with puddles gathering around us. Nellie commented that gee, my hair looked nice. It looked like wet spaghetti by this time. Thanks Nellie.

Somewhere along the line I began to worry about my thin yellow blouse and made the comment that if it got much wetter, I was going to be wearing a seethrough blouse. I was told to just keep on waving, when they started waving back I would know why.

Before we reached Glades Plaza we were all shivering and we had one Cub Scout hollering out to the crowd. "Please, a towel for a poor, wet Cub Scout!"

I heard Monday morning that our float won first prize. I was really thrilled.

I was also heartened by the way the crowds stood out in the rain to see the parade.

I understand that the Black Gold Jubilee was again this year a great success.

We are all looking forward to next year.

It wouldn't dare rain on our Black Gold Jubilee two years in a row.

... and whatnot by Aileen Dewing

I figure that if somebody really meant me to fly they would eliminate landings, take-offs, cloudbanks and Atlanta.

I am not one of those who is wild about flying. I only admit it's faster than walking. So, I take to the air like a chicken in the clutches of a hawk—as though it were endangering the species of the only living me.

I only recently stopped shaking from my latest flight. Which is to say I have finally landed although I believe the plane came down last week some time.

I'm sure the airlines are aware of my fear and trepidation. One also takes notes during the lecture on emergency exits? Or asks the stewardess if she'd mind repeating the instructions.

How many people answer, "neither" when asked if they would rather sit by the window or the aisle? "By a door," is my reply.

Let the others sit on their flotation seats if they want to. I prefer to clutch mine to my breast, thank you very much. I don't care if we are passing over dry land. That hurts even worse when you fall out it and how can I be sure I won't go down head first?

And why would anyone want to use an on-board facility with the hereafter just outside the window? Twisting on the brink of eternity, let me at least approach it with dignity.

Besides, if I went in there who would be left to keep the watch and make sure the engines stay attached and all the little wing flaps go up and down without popping any rivets?

I once flew on a jumbo jet with a plane load of Japanese tourists. As soon as the plane was airborne, they broke into applause. I couldn't tell if they were affirming their faith in the pilot, the plane, or divine providence. All I know is, when we landed, I led the applause.

Now the only reason I don't like Atlanta is that it provides another place to land and take off. Why planes like to go up and down there I don't know. Any more than I know why it is that whenever I have to fly to you can't get there from here without going someplace else first. Atlanta mostly.

I certainly can't believe Atlanta wants a whole bunch of us drop-ins hanging around waiting to, go someplace better.

I even detect an air in Atlanta of, "Why did you come here if you don't like it." There may even be some fear that nobody will ever call for us and they'll be stuck with us. Or maybe I just project my own fears.

No need to explain my fear of cloudbanks, which I suspect are full of planes heading toward us on the wrong side of the sky with no headlights on. I'm positive they don't even slow down or blow their foghorns.

But landings are what I least like the most. Why does the pilot always speed up when he knew we were going to stop? Planes always land like it was a last-minute decision. Like somebody said, "Let's pull it here" just as we're passing the runway. And then the pilot said, "Oh! Is this the place? and came in for a screeching halt.

First I wait for the tires to blow out. When that doesn't happen I'm braced for us to go crashing through the wall of the terminal. I'm always surprised when we don't step off the plane within inches of the back door of the terminal.

About the only thing that interests me when I'm flying is the food. On this last trip we had boiled ham sandwiches. I think it was a mistake to boil them. Made them soggy.

Not that I ever eat the food. I stow it away in my survival kit, in case we make an emergency landing and I'm the only survivor, bobbing around in the ocean for days or hanging off a mountain cliff.

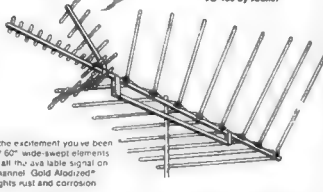

You needn't laugh. Won't I be the only passenger sitting near the door who saw the engine fall off and who had memorized the emergency exit procedures?

Taking it From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

Last year I met a young man who was working for the Wycliffe Bible Translators. Last Sunday he spoke at the Everglades Presbyterian Church. Who are the Wycliffe Bible Translators?

The Wycliffe Bible Translators are a group of 4,000 people who believe "that to accomplish Christ's commission the Gospel must be given to every man in the language he understands best. Every group needs at least some of the written Scriptures in its own native tongue."

How did this group get started? "As young Cameron Townsend sold Spanish Bibles in Guatemala, he discovered that 60 percent of the people were members of ethnic minority groups who could not speak Spanish.

"Townsend left his college (selling of religious materials) work to live among the Cakchiquel people. He learned their difficult language, reduced it to writing, analyzed its intricate grammar, and translated the New Testament.

"The translation resulted in extensive evangelism and 100 congregations of Cakchiquel believers."

Townsend's work has spread into a world-wide organization which has translated the Bible into more than 120 languages. New translations are being added at the rate of one every 11 days.

It would seem that the work would be finished soon except that 3,000 more languages need to be studied, analyzed, and translated. This process for each language takes an average of 15 years. It is quite a job and a tremendous exercise of faith.

Howard and Deirdre Shelden both are students of linguistics. After completing their study in the United States, they will go to Papua, New Guinea, and then to the Philippines for in-service training and then they will go to Indonesia where they will really begin their work. This is several years away.

They are a couple with true faith. It will take many years before they see the evidence of their work.

Let us pray for this couple who visited in Belle Glade and shared their future with those of us at Everglades Presbyterian Church.

Lakeside Baptists plan homecoming

PAHOKEE—Weekend revival services will mark annual Homecoming Sunday for Lakeside Baptist Church.

Brother Norman Pierce of Victory Baptist Mission in Ocala will lead the revival services to be held Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30 and Sunday at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our gratitude for all of the love and friendship shown to us during the sickness and loss of our mother, Ruby Lee Kemp. Your prayers and thoughtfulness helped make this most difficult time a little easier to bear.

We thank you for all of the cards, love, and beautiful flowers. Your displays of kindness have shown us Mother loved the town and people of Pahokee very much. Our thanks also go out to Dr. Pate and the staff of Everglades Memorial Hospital. The care and tenderness shown by these fine people will always be remembered. Thank you again.

Thurman, Ruthlyn, Jan and Family

APPRECIATION

The family of the late Mr. Ralph Emerson Jasper would like to give their appreciation to everyone who gave the family such wonderful support. Many thanks for the food, flowers, cards, comfort, etc. . . and most of all your special prayers. Special thanks goes out to Hendry General Hospital Staff, Mrs. Emma Brockington, Ms. Cynthia Scott, Everglades Masonic Lodge #548, Everglades Masonic Lodge of Belle Glade, Reddick Funeral Home Staff, Willard Taylor Jr., Rev. J. B. Adams, Bishop T. N. Granville, Elder James Allen Jr., Dr. Effie C. Grear, Mrs. Mattie Scott, Ms. Lizzie Robinson, class of 1967, Afro-American Student Union from Bethune Cookman College 1969, Ms. Herlene Williams, Black Lotus Women's Club, Baron's Men Club, and most of all to friends. May God continue blessing all of you. Though to families and friends, Ralph was indeed the greatest comedian of the truth, this is one of the reasons we are always sure to smile, because he is now free.

Area church news

Our instructions read 36 inches. But one of the sides of our "do-it-yourself" bookcase measured only 35 inches.

"Why not just shorten the other side by an inch?" suggested my son, John. We did and ended up having to cut an inch off the back. It would have been better had we corrected rather than simply revised the plans.

Like the bookcase, our lives have a plan drafted by God. We often fall short, and rather than correct ourselves, we downgrade our other dimensions—our standards and aspirations. Thus, we fool ourselves into believing that we still measure up. The result is a life half-lived, filled with doubt, worry and often, regret.

Read of God's plan for you in the Bible; consult with him in His Church.

You have everything to gain.

Moonies film to be shown

BELLE GLADE—"Heavenly Deception," a movie depicting the story of ex-Moonie Chris Elkins, will be shown at the First Baptist Church, 17 NW Avenue B, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The film is based on a book by Elkins, a former member of the Unification Church, the cult headed by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

According to Elkins' account, he rose quickly to hold a position close to the top leadership of the cult and became knowledgeable about the goals and methods of operation.
